SOIT Students Earn Opening Day Screening of Black Panther

Over one hundred School of Information Technology students attended the opening day viewing of the new superhero film featuring an African lead, “Black Panther.” The trip served as an incentive for those students that had passed all of their classes during second marking period. Students were able to view the Marvel Studio film’s historic run. The film earned $242 million at the Presidents Day weekend box office, the second-best four-day showing ever in the U.S. ever! It has become the best-reviewed live-action superhero movie ever, and hailed as an important cultural phenomenon thanks to its diverse cast and themes of African pride.

Students left the theater wondering what their next incentive trip will look like!
